All Going to Palm Beach
Two Beautiful Feet
And a Strange Back Head
Josephus Daniels' Paper

Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

EVERYBODY on this train is going to Palm Beach, via the Seaboard Air Line. A solid row of 12 Pullman cars left New York, via the Pennsylvania, Monday evening at 7:05, with everything full.

The travelers will be unloaded at Palm Beach, this Tuesday morning, all around in the sun looking at each other's clothes for a while, then go back in another solid row of Pullmans, wondering why they came.

VISITORS to Palm Beach are of three classes.

First, people that have nothing to do and seek the most agreeable places in which to do it.

Second, men who have too much work and too much money, whose doctors send them away.

Third, men who go South to see wives who feel that if you are not photographed sitting cross-legged on the sand, at Palm Beach once a year, you might as well be dead.

ONE SAMPLE of the "men who go away to make their money" sits in the dining room, brooding over something that he knows he should not do. That's Arthur Williams, whose business just in New York consists of half a dozen gas and electric light trusts on which he sits habitually, as faithfully as a Dominican hen on her eggs.

WHEN THE engine stops to take in water, the passengers get out to take in air. Then you see them, as they parade for a moment, each wondering why the others are going.

One drop of salt water, analyzed, tells the whole story of the Pacific Ocean. One young woman described tells pretty well the story of the Palm Beach picture.

Her two shiny feet are harmonized as gracefully and sublimely as a pair of king's horses. There are gold, satin, leather, and very much foot, showing in a stocking made to imitate naked skin. She loves these feet and is taking them down to the crowd that will appreciate them.

YOUR EYE jumps from her feet to her head. In between is a whirl of fur, cut and slashed in every way, except that in which the animal wore it. The head is the very latest in woman's evolution toward something or other. Heaven only knows what.

There's a bit about as big as the top of an old-fashioned sugar bowl, fitting the lady's skull as tightly as the lid fits the bowl. It's black, with a feather hanging down.

BUT IT'S the hair that holds and startles you if you are old fashioned. From in front, the hair looks natural, for these times; it is artificially curled with the beautiful precision of unborn Persian lamb fur.

BUT THE BACK. There is nothing there. The barber, who undoubtedly learned the trade from a French poodle, has chopped the hair down and in, but as a panache against the lady's neck. It's the back head of a young boy, the front view of a wild woman.

Deep psychology there. If you tire of the complicated front, with the flashing, shining curls and waves, run around to the back of the head.

BUILDING TANKS STOPPED
Navy Department Orders Work Held Up Because of Teapot Dome Probe

Construction of a score of giant tanks for the storage of naval oil has been stopped as a result of the disclosures of scandal in Teapot Dome.

Fourteen tanks, two of the largest in the world, of storage of naval oil, are being built at Portsmouth, N. H. A dozen tanks are to be built on Governors Island in Boston Harbor, and another large number, capable of storing millions of gallons of gasoline and kerosene, are planned for Melville, R. I.

Under contract with the government, the Sinclair Company is to build the tanks without expense to the navy.

Doheny also had contracted to build oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and at Seattle.

Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory, head of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, announced today in Washington, that actual work on the tanks had begun at Portsmouth, but it was ordered stopped because of the developments in the Teapot Dome scandal.

If President Coolidge breaks the contract made with Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, the work to build at Boston and Melville may be abandoned.

Indian Oil Land Ruling by Fall Is Under Fire

Washington, Feb. 12.—Legality of the ruling by Albert B. Fall, while Secretary of the Interior, which permitted the leasing of oil and gas on Indian reservation for mining and the production of oil and gas, was questioned today by the House Indian Affairs subcommittee, after an investigation of the former secretary's action.

In the Senate, the probing committee called, as the first witness of the day, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First Trust & Savings Bank of Boston.

MUMMY OF KING TUT FOUND IN CAUGHT AFTER GOLDEN CASE

Dazzling Sight Greets Carter Party as the Lid of Sarcophagus Is Raised

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 12 (A.P.)—The lid of Tut-Ankh-Amen's Sarcophagus was raised today.

When the lid was lifted there was revealed the most splendid golden mummy case ever found in Egypt.

It is about three meters long. The mummy case bears an effigy in relief of the king, wearing the "nemes" or sacred headdress like that of the sphinx, decorated with the head of a hawk and a serpent in pure gold set with lapis lazuli. The hands are crossed, one bearing a crook scepter and the other a "nail."

A pathetic touch is given the effigy by a little crown of red and blue flowers set about the gold headdress. It is understood the body of the king was found within.

The government's decision to keep today's operation strictly private brought considerable disappointment among the archaeologists working at Thebes, when Howard Carter told them that the tomb had been found.

Rum Clew in Beauty's Death

Four medical practitioners of Quincy were in Quincy Court today on charges of illegal practice.

The cases of three were continued until February 27. They were Dr. J. J. and Mrs. Black of No. 8 Billings road, Norfolk, Duxbury, and Ella Phillips, also of Norfolk Duxbury.

Gordon H. Walker of No. 12 Tyler street, Norfolk Duxbury, a naturepoth, was placed on trial.

Three women and a man testified as to having been treated by him, being given massage and electrical treatments. Prosecution was conducted by State Detective Kostlin.

Judge Albert Avery postponed a verdict until Friday, ordering Walker to be examined by the State Medical Board.

"If you do not pass the board's examination then you must return here and take the consequences," he said.

The State Board demands that a practitioner have a degree from a medical college of standing before he can secure a certificate to practice in Massachusetts. Walker possesses no such degree.

BIG WELCOME HOME FOR LIEUT. GRIFFIS

New York, Feb. 12.—Cheering thousands greeted Lieut. Corbin Griffis, whose successful attempt to kidnap Grover Cleveland, draft evader, landed him in a German prison. As he departed here after his journey from Germany, in company with Karl H. von Wiegand, correspondent for the Hearst newspapers, who effected the liberation of the young American lieutenant.

"Where's my mother?" was Lieut. Griffis' first words as the Mayor's committee boat pulled alongside the liner Albert Ballin. Then there followed a touching reunion between the young officer and his mother, father and sister, Dorothy.

Von Wiegand, in turn, partook in a joyous reunion with his daughter, son and daughter-in-law, who were also on the Mason to greet him.

Then, at the Battery, Lieut. Griffis joined the thousands who waited to welcome him back, and accompanied by a detachment of mounted police, an other of motorcycle officers, and numerous official cars, he proceeded to City Hall, where Acting Mayor William T. Collins paid him a high tribute in an address.

Newsie Owns Auto, But Is Accused as Delinquent

Tony Capobianco, sixteen years old, of Gold street, East Boston, newsboy, is one of seven children. He sold newspapers so industriously he was not only able to be a great help to his father but also to save money. Two months ago he invested $25 in a second-hand automobile. It stalled on Summer street, near Paris street, East Boston, and all of Tony's admonitions to get it on its way failed. Up steps a policeman. "Where's your license?"

Tony had none. He had failed to qualify in road tests, so didn't bother with the matter further. Merely ran his car.

On Wednesday next he will be in Juvenile Court charged with being delinquent, although he's such a hustling, plucky little fellow he can afford an automobile.

RICH MEN'S BOOTLEGS SOUGHT

Hope to Find Slinger of Louise Lawson Through Her Wealthy Admirers

New York, Feb. 12.—Bootleggers who supplied liquor to Miss Louise Lawson, music student, strangled to death in her fashionable apartment last Friday, were sought today by the police in a round-up of suspects.

A number of wealthy men known to have contributed liquor to the girl were interviewed by detectives. They were assured their names, obtained from a memorandum book found in the girl's apartment, would not be made public.

It was learned that three days before her death Miss Lawson received as a present from one of her admirers a half dozen bottles of champagne and a case of whiskey.

The men suspected of the murder—a pair who called at her apartment two hours before her body was found—were sought by detectives, giving the elevator operator, Thomas Kane, to understand them had a case of whiskey for the girl.

Police have located the man who sold liquor to Miss Lawson and today detectives went to a New Jersey town to talk to him. This man, it was said, never actually delivered his wares at the apartment, but they continued on Page 3, Col. 7.

SENATE BALKED BY COOLIDGE'S REFUSAL TO REMOVE DENBY

INDIAN OIL LAWS RULING BY HER MARRIED LIFE FALL UNDER FIRE ONE OF BLOWS

Bank of Chicago. Traylor's bank, in which Miss H. Starna, one of the counsel appointed by President Coolidge to prosecute the government's oil cases, is a director, handled the financial transactions for the sale of the Alibon, N. M., mining rights to William M. Weil of Minneapolis for $200,000, in 1922.

At the request of Weil, the trustees were induced in a direct court conference, Traylor said. The former owner, Carl C. McGee, purchased the paper from the secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in February, 1920.

Under questioning by Senator Walsh, Traylor admitted his bank and First National Bank of Chicago, with which it is affiliated, are the Chicago banks of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby should quit the cabinet immediately, the Senate voted, 47 to 24, in opposing the Robinson resolution, then voting upon the President's demand the Secretary's resignation. President Coolidge later refused to resign this resolution, and declared:

"The dismissal of any officer of the government such as is involved in this case, other than by impeachment is exclusively an executive function. I regard this as a vital principle of our government."

ENEMIES ARE BLOCKED

The only recourse left to Denby's enemies in the Senate is to resort to impeachment proceedings. There are few observers at the Capitol today who believed that this will be tried, or that it would be successful if attempted.

Impeachment proceedings, must originate in the House, with the Senate sitting as a trial court in case the House finds an officer's conduct to be such as to warrant impeachment. The House indicates for high crime or malfeasance in office, and the Senate tries.

FILED BY DISCHARGE

Attorney General Daugherty, faced by similar action upon the Wheeler resolution asking the President to remove him, opened in the Senate to give him a hearing before a committee.

The attitude of the White House toward Daugherty is the same as that toward Traylor.

Eggs Gone, He Finds He Has Swapped Automobiles

Taunton, Feb. 12.—Jacob Goldstein, a Taunton business man, is so astonished he stopped at the wrong automobile and drove off, after leaving the Belmont Trust Company.

He drove off in a five-passenger closed car and left his own seven-passenger car standing in front of the bank. Later, when he found six dozens of fresh eggs missing from the back of what he thought was his own car, he got angry.

His own car was still in front of the bank. The car he had driven off belonged to Benjamin G. Brewster, another Taunton business man.

Tiddledy - Winks on Esplanade Cost Tech Man $5 in Court

Henry O. Shea, a Tech student reading on Pickney street, is convinced it doesn't pay to play tiddledy-winks, or any other kind of game on the Metropolitan Reservation.

He faced Judge Dowd after being arrested for "playing about" on the esplanade and refusing to desist when ordered to do so.

The student was inclined to argue the matter with the judge. "Those rules were made for fools like you. Fined $5," was the judicial end of the argument.

TORN SHIRT IN POLICEMAN'S DEFENCE

Will Be Shown as Evidence in Struggle in Which Woman Was Killed

Holyoke, Feb. 12.—A mute but eloquent witness for the defense, when Patrolman John H. (Jackie) Burns, World War veteran and former Fordham student, is arraigned on March 4 charged with the killing of Mrs. Stanley Milos of No. 12 Leman street, will be the policeman's torn shirt.

This evidence, in part, the policeman will cite in his plea of self-defense.

Mrs. Milos, forty-five years old and mother of three children, lost her life when she jumped between the policeman and her husband.

Milos, based from a window of their second-story apartment and in the hospital with a broken leg.

COBBLER AFIRE AS HE SLEEPS IS RESCUED

Dozes at Bench in Roxbury Shop, Clothes in Flames

When Discovered

An agent cobbler who was sleeping at his work bench, while flames licked his feet and set his clothing afire, might have been burned to death but for the chance passing of a young girl, who risked his life in rescuing him.

Tony George, sixty-six years old, is the cobbler. He lives at the National Army Powder Palace, No. 1522 Washington street, South End, and conducts a shoe repair shop at No. 15 in Yonkers street, Roxbury.

After a heavy supper, the cobbler returned to his bench. His tiny heater glowed and soon he became drowsy, then fell asleep. While he slept, the fire roared and soon the stove was red-hot, setting fire to the wood about it. The flames spread to George's feet and set his clothes ablaze without awakening him.

Joseph Lamelle, twenty-two years old, No. 22 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, who was passing, saw smoke issuing from the shop and ran in to help.

He was almost overcome by the fumes of burning leather.

With the aid of a neighbor in his arms, he staggered to the door and fell unconscious. Just as Engine 12 arrived, Firemen carried the two to safety.

George may not live. The shop was only slightly damaged.

The royal mummy case has not yet been opened.

Accompanied by Mr. Carter, the party shortly entered the tomb and remained there an hour.

DOCTORS BRAND DR. ABRAMS' ELECTRONIC MACHINE AS WORTHLESS

PIDICULE DIAGNOSIS THEORY

Determining Disease by Vibrations, Experts Say, Is Impossible

This is the gist of a series of articles on the Abrams method of diagnosis and treatment of disease which has many followers in Boston. Leading clinics of cure are made by its practitioners. Many leaders in the medical profession denounce it as a fraud.

DOCTOR TAPS HERE

Does can vibrations destroy disease? This question was propounded by Francis A. Cave, D. O., M. D., chief disciple of Dr. Abrams in Boston, in a pamphlet entitled "The Electronic Disease of Abrams." He then proceeded to furnish what purported to be an affirmative answer on the theory that like cures like.

MEASURES DISEASE

A machine known as the "Oscillator" is used by Abrams' practitioners to apply the counter vibratory rate.

Professor R. A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, in a letter published by the Journal of the American Medical Association, said the theory was the "light of nature."

"Everything in nature has its own period or rate of vibration," said Dr. Cave in the pamphlet published by the "Physico-Clinical Institute, Inc., No. 850 Boylston street, Boston." This is the same address as Dr. Cave's office.

"It once approaches an object with a source of vibration of the same vibratory rate as itself," he continued, "the object will also be set in vibration—as shown by the response of the harp to the tuning fork. The forced vibration of the object may attain such magnitude as to fracture or destroy it."

"Cancer could take a wine glass and determine its tone, or vibratory rate, by tapping it. Then the sinning of that tone into the glass would shatter it."

"This is exactly what happens when you impose upon a disease something yielding its own vibratory rate, and it makes no difference whether that something be a chemical, a pigment, a ray of light, an electric current, or some other thing yielding the same vibratory rate."

This brief statement contains in concentrated form practically the entire therapeutic philosophy of Abrams, which prolonged demonstration of the "healing" of various ailments, and the first successful effort to deal with medical problems upon a purely mathematical basis.

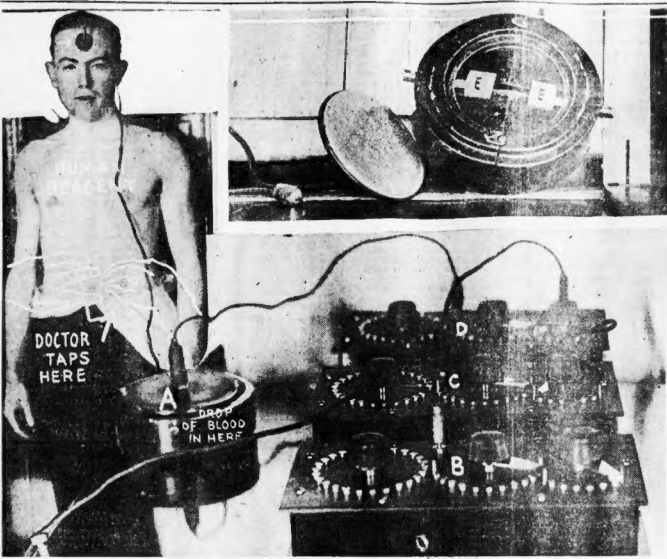

"Disease is merely the expression of a certain vibratory rate. If this vibratory rate can be measured, something can be found with a similar vibratory rate which can be imposed upon it and destroy it, thereby to a large extent proving the correctness of the Hahnemannian principle of 'Similia Similibus Curantur.'"

CURE IS SURE

In this connection the fact may be interpreted that a committee appointed by the International Hahnemannian Association, investigated the Abrams method, and informed it.

Continuing Dr. Cave said: "If we can make it impossible for the vibratory rate of disease to exist, the disease then cannot exist. Abrams has shown the world not

DIAGNOSING DISEASE BY ABRAMS METHOD

Photograph of the Abrams diagnosing apparatus, taken in the office of Dr. Francis T. Davis, No. 31 Commonwealth avenue. With an hand can reporter as "human reagent." A drop of a patient's blood is placed in the "dynamometer" (N). Its "ultrasonic vibrations" are transmitted by wires to the three "ultraphones." (O C D). These are coils of wire encased in boxes, as shown above. By means of the nine knobs the physician tunes in for a certain disease, for example cancer. From the coils, a wire stretches to the forehead of the human reagent. The physician taps on the reagent's stomach in a certain area, and if a hollow sound is noted, the patient is said to have cancer.

APPARATUS AND REPORTER AS SUBJECT

If no hollow area is discovered on the reagent, the machine is found in the stammer disease and the experiment repeated. Thus the disease of the patient, whose blood is being tested, is determined. The human reagent is not the patient, but is part of the mechanism, usually the doctor's assistant. The patient may be asleep, or, as in the case of the dynamometer, the patient may be awake during the diagnosis. (Inset shows inside of dynamometer) with positive and negative electrodes (O C D).

only have to measure out the vibratory rate of disease, but also how to measure out its currency, a thing which is not possible with any other method known to us.

"And when these things are ascertained, and the application of his therapeutic reasoning is made, the disappearance of the reaction is a certainty. Here is the basis for all therapeutic systems, whether allopathic, homeopathic, osteopathic or mental."

"The vibratory rate of the disease organ or tissue must be changed or recovered cannot ensure. Just how the change is successfully made by the different schools of practice could readily be determined by the application of this process of reasoning to their respective problems."

Somerville Tailor Says Employee Took Bills Home and Never Returned Them

Antonio Tranzone is a tailor who carries candy to work in his coat pockets for his girl employee to enjoy.

Tranzone, 40, Antonio did carry candy in his pockets, but since the practice cost him his bankroll of $1,200, he is entirely sure that he never feels more like lending his pockets with candy or anything.

The loss of the $1,200 came to light when Miss Mary Moriarty, mistress of No. 15 Glen street, Somerville, was told by Tranzone.

Tranzone, who was employed by Moriarty for several weeks, was found to have taken the money from her.

The money was found in his pockets when he was arrested by the police.

Tranzone is now in jail, awaiting trial for the theft.

Says Reid Owe Him
$42,580 for Keeping
Him Well

New York, Feb. 12.—A new angle is added to the double illustration between Daniel G. Reid, "the plus king," and Dr. Charles F. Stokes, former surgeon-general of the navy, in which they are attempting to collect alleged debts from each other.

Dr. Stokes has admitted making two notes for $14,000 and $23,580 to Reid, but asserts they were wiped out by Reid's alleged failure to pay him $42,580 for professional services.

The litigation was started by Dr. Stokes several weeks ago in a suit for $50,000 for professional services. He said the original bill was $101,516, and that the difference had been paid by Reid in installments.

Dr. Stokes charged at the rate of $2,000 a month for accompanying Reid from place to place from January 15, 1913, to March 15, 1923, "day and night," and at the rate of $1,000 a month when not giving all his time.

Reid, under $1,500 bail on a secret indictment which charges her with larceny, according to Tranzone, whose shop at No. 43 Court street, Mary, who worked for him, asked him for a piece of candy, one afternoon. It had been a tough day and candy was refreshing to the kind-hearted employer.

When she came back to his pocket and bit herself, she did. According to the tailor, the girl asked to borrow the roll overnight "just to show the folks at home."

Tranzone's big heart wouldn't bear any more. He and the roll, he insists.

The next day Mary was at work as usual. The matter of the $1,500 had slipped her mind entirely. In the afternoon she never mentioned it afterwards.

Lexington Man Can't Even Get Out and Look After His Pig

During the last month it has cost James H. Harvey $250 and much time to keep pigs in Lexington.

Today it cost him $125 and his right to live in Lexington. He was ordered to leave town by Judge Keyes in Concord district court.

So Harvey is in a quandary. He has been ordered to leave town and he can't leave because some walls sometimes a prison make and iron bars a cage.

Four times in one month Harvey appeared in Concord court for alleged refusal to provide adequate food and shelter for his pigs. His fines to date total $250.

Today he appeared again, on the same charge.

"Clean up that farm, on your own and leave town," ordered Judge Keyes, and imposed a fine of $125.

But Harvey was held in default of $250 following his appeal.

COOLIDGE WILL COMPROMISE ON SURTAX PLAN

Siemp's Letter Indicates That President Will Not Insist on 25 P. C. Maximum

By WINDER R. HARRIS

Washington, Feb. 12 (Universal)—The Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee split three ways and the Democrats standing solidly in their reports, the decks are cleared for the five-forty tax reduction battle scheduled to begin in the House Thursday.

The outcome of the principal plan of the House, which centers around the surtax rates, remains as much in doubt as when Secretary Mellon first recommended a cut from the present maximum rate of 50 per cent. to 25 per cent.

The only certainty in the situation seems to be that the 25 per cent. maximum cannot prevail in the House.

President Coolidge, who had indicated he would veto the bill if it carried maximum surtax higher than 25 per cent., now appears to be disposed to submit to a compromise. This was the interpretation given in a letter from Secretary Siemp to Representative Davey, Democrat of Ohio, in reply to a request for a definite statement of the President's position.

The committee report submitted by Chairman Green leaves the way open for himself and Representative Embick, of Colorado, and Mr. Laughlin, Michigan, to support a higher rate than 25 per cent.

The Democrats in their minority report addressed to the 44 per cent. surtax maximum in their original substitute plan.

Larz Andersons Once Again Set Sail For France, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

CONFIRMED globe-trotters that they are—Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson have once again set sail for foreign shores.

Early in January they left magnificent "Wendy," their Brookline estate, for a several weeks' sojourn at Naxos. This came a flying trip to their Washington home and now they are Europe-bound to be gone until Spring.

Mrs. Anderson, who is one of the most charming hostesses of Boston and the capital, as well as an author of considerable note, is planning to spend much of her stay abroad in Paris. The one-time ambassador to Japan will visit some of the fashionable spots along the Riviera.

TRAVELING seems to be in the air—at least on the railroads. Miss Nina Underwood of Belmont has just left for California, with Dr. and Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin of New York, parents of her niece, David H. McAlpin, Jr., the famous tennis player.

Miss Underwood will return home in March.

Miss Underwood was introduced to society with the help of Dr. and Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin, Jr., who were in the city for a few days.

NOTE that Freddy Prince, Jr., of the dinner parties given at the Prince estate in Fair Haven, Conn., is spending more time than ever at the villa in France, while "Princess" is in the Prince Crossing estate, becoming more and more devoted.

The Prince Crossing estate, which the family has owned since the late 1800s, is one of the most splendid hunting estates of that district.

Among the folk whom Freddy Prince, Jr., has recently entertained at "Villa Ste. Helen," as the French place is called, are:

Miss Henry H. Hall, gave a dinner at the other evening at her Commonwealth avenue home.

Among the guests was Miss John Blanchard who, in June, will become the bride of Mr. Hall's son, Henry Hall, of Boston.

Other guests were Benjamin Blanchard and his fiancée, Miss Eleanor Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ward.

Miss Andrew Allen is expected back this week at the Chestnut Hill home following a brief visit in Gotham.

Mr. Henry C. Frick and his daughter, Miss Helen Frick of Peoria Crossing, have arrived from Cannes at the Crillon in Paris.

Mrs. Robert A. MacReady and his daughter, Miss Dorothy and Augusta Macready of No. 518 Park avenue, N. Y., are spending a few weeks in Boston at the Vendome.

Mrs. George W. B. Fletcher and Miss Fletcher of Haverford, Pa., are spending the recent arrivals at the Copley House.

LONE BANDIT BATTLES WITH IRISH TROOPS

Dublin, Feb. 12.—Irish Free State soldiers opened a drive against criminals today, arresting more than a dozen highwaymen and ending up with a violent battle in the center of Dublin when the troops attempted to seize Christopher Barry, an alleged bandit. Barry, a 30-year-old man, was being taken to his home and detained in his home.

For an hour the troops laid siege to the house, pouring a hot fire from rifles and pistols upon the building. Then the soldiers stormed the hold line, finding Barry suffering from three wounds. Captain Penrose of the Free State troops was wounded.

RUM PIRATES GET $129,000 FOR CARGO

Seize Bermuda-Bound Ship, Dispose of Liquor and Make Escape

New York, Feb. 12.—The story of a relieving crew of rum pirates who boarded the liquor-carrying steam-tugboat Lutzen two days out of St. John, N. R., kicked her stern into the hold, sailed to Rum row and disposed of the cargo for $129,000, was told here.

The Canadian and United States governments, as well as Lord's, who insured the cargo, have instituted charges for the sea highway.

The Lutzen was two days out of St. John, N. B., bound for Hamilton, Bermuda, when the pirates suddenly appeared, hoisted her and sailed into the harbor, where they landed the supercargo below decks in trunks and changing the course to Rum row. The pirate ship disappeared.

The name "Lutzen" was painted out and "Lion" substituted. The buccanniers competed with other ships in Rum row until the whiskey was sold and then sold the ship for $129,000 cash, when they signalled her from shore, were taken off and disappeared somewhere in this country.

When the pirates departed the Lutzen, Feb. 12.—William J. Rathbone, who proceeded to Hamilton and delivered what was left of the real cargo, which the buccanniers could not sell.

U. S. OLYMPIC ATHLETES SHOW GREAT IMPROVEMENT

B.C. BOV COGG STAR

By TOM THORP.
The rapid strides being taken duty by the various track and field stars that take part in games in and around the metropolis make it a little more difficult to keep track of the progress of the Olympians. Lloyd Hahn is a case in point. Not a single indoor last season without some record breaking performance. The fact that these games attract larger crowds than ever before is proof that the public has become greatly interested.

The very atmosphere at these meets breathes the challenge to the word to send their best representatives against ours. The result is that the athletes and fans have been worked up into a most fever heat in the endeavor to develop a strong enough track and field team to win the next Olympic Games.

The seasonal performance of Chet Bowman, the spectacular Syracuse University sprinter and football player, is the talk of the athletic world. Experts know that the Salt City lad is a speed marvel.

The defeat that Loren Murchison sustained at the hands of Bowman was a hard look for the athlete, and the fact that he beat the national champion means that he must be considered for Olympic honors.

Many are picking up the fact that he has been coming to the front in track circles. Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. is an unknown quantity in the world of the great Jock. His clean victory over the "Cherry One" in the 100-yard race at the Miller games was enough to show that he has a strong contender for Olympic honors.

The superb race that he ran behind the Boston A. A. team added prestige to his reputation as a runner.

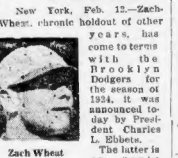

In winning the two-mile mile event Hahn came within a second of the record.

He covers the ground in a manner that makes him a rival to the best. Hahn is just a youngster, but he has plenty to learn.

Dodgers Holdout Comes to Terms for Season

New York, Feb. 12.—Zach Wheat, chronic holdout of other years, has come to terms with the Brooklyn Dodgers for the season of 1924. It was announced today by President Charles L. Ebbets.

The latter is en route North from the Dodgers' camp at Clearwater, Fla., and Wheat's acceptance of terms from Washington.

Wheat will report at Clearwater on February 22, it was announced.

Ebbets also made known the fact that Nelson G. Green, left-hand pitcher from Richmond, Va., had signed his contract and that Irvy Olson, veteran infielder, would act as coach this season.

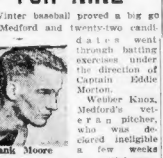

At the arena tonight the Boston Hockey Club will play the Maple Leafs from New Haven. The B. A. is weakened by the enforced absence of Al Smith because of his injury.

These two games will have importance attached to them for the Bruins lead the Eastern division of the Hockey League by a scant half point.

PALLAS MAKES GRASS GROW AT ST. PETE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 12.—The Braves will have one of the best playing fields in the South for training this spring, according to Tom Pallas, who came down here some time ago to get the orchard into big league shape.

Pallas has made the lawn at Braves Field since that pasture was discovered, found things in pretty good shape when he arrived. He got busy immediately, and made it into a sort of a contractor.

He has had a crew of laborers on the jump steadily, and in a couple of weeks has built a new foundation for the whole playing field. He has also had some of the best sod laid down immediately, and furnishes a base that will endure for years.

Rule Marquard will not be hurried in and he is expected to be ready to go any longer. The field was so soft last spring that many of the Braves left here with charley horses or badly strained legs. Some of the players did not recover entirely. That trouble according to Pallas, will be missing this year.

The veteran professional ground keeper has had a volunteer assistant in the person of Rube Marquard, who owns a home here, and who put the Winter in as a real estate operator. Rube cleaned up a lot of money from the winter, and has turned it into the ever popular land game.

Marmaduke has performed on many hot field and naturally knows a lot about them. So he was a very valuable first assistant to Pallas.

The Rule also took an intensive course in golf during the Winter and is now ready, he says, to take on Stuffy Melnick or any of the athletes who think they know the links game. Rube wasn't so soon when he started, but he was very serious about it, and has turned out some really creditable scores.

Miller Huggins, manager of the champion Yankees, was also a Winter resident, and did a lot of golfing and fishing. He also was turned out some really creditable scores.

GIRL'S BROTHER BY PSYCHOLOGIST

PARALYSIS ROUTED BY SMILES

Daughter of State Treasurer
Jackson Can Now Walk
About, Unassisted

Little Elizabeth Jackson has no license to be living, but she has a wonderful sense of humor. And, because she has a wonderful sense of humor, she is living despite her lack of license.

Elizabeth is a daughter of State Treasurer James Jackson. For two years now, she has been in the face of death until her laughter has driven the grim specter into the dim distance. Her sense of humor defied her father today, is on the point of registering a remarkable victory.

Two years ago Elizabeth, then a girl of twelve was recovering from illness at her Beacon street home. Her illness had brought on spells of somnambulism and to guard against possible injury, her father had installed a grill work over the window of her room overlooking the yards in the rear of Beacon street.

BECAME PARALYZED
But the iron bars proved in-

Mentally Healed

ELIZABETH JACKSON

pector. During one of her sleep-walking spells, Elizabeth groped her way to the window, swung the panes outward and squirmed her body through the bars.

At the time Elizabeth's brother, Al Cross, was taken. They disclosed that a large portion of her brain, controlling muscular movement of one side of the body, had been affected. Paralysis resulted and little Elizabeth remained in a coma for many dark days.

Then, at last, her sense of humor was given a chance. Under the skillful ministrations of Dr. Harvey Cushing and Dr. Channing Frothingham, who was brought back to consciousness.

"AMAZING RECOVERY."
It was a long and bitter fight waged by these two surgeons in collaboration with the unfailing sense of humor of their young patient.

Let the State Treasurer, Elizabeth's father, tell it:

"My daughter has made a most amazing recovery," he said. "According to all the rules of medical science, she has no license to be living.

"She is not entirely cured as yet, as it is a slow process, but we believe that in two years, four at the most, she will be normal in every respect."

"She has a wonderful sense of humor, which has helped her prove 'she plucks' and mentally."

TREATMENT A SUCCESS.
Roasting, perhaps, the Elizabeth was beyond the aid of mere medicine, the surgeons and a number of specialists, who were called in, brought psychology to play in an attempt to restore her shattered health.

"Among them," said Treasurer Jackson, "is one who is treating her from the point of mental suggestion—and it has done her a tremendous amount of good."

"The plan of her mental healer is to restore the afflicted portion of her brain by psychological means—and has been entirely successful to a very great extent."

"He taught her to stop and think how nice it would be to walk like other little girls, and then told her to go and walk, which she has learned to do all over again. Gradually the destroyed portion of her brain, which directs these actions is being replaced and she has now reached the stage where she has only slight paralysis."

JUST PSYCHOLOGY.
It is the result of thinking—a matter of psychology. There is a great deal in this, and my daughter's case has been a departure from both a medical and psychological standpoint.

We never refer to her fall in any way, as we believe that thinking about it might lead her into an accident similar to the one which she encountered two years ago. But from all outward appearance she is a perfectly normal child. Only a slight hesitancy when she reaches for anything, or walks, is noticeable. Her mentality is absolutely sound and she is able to enjoy walking and horseback riding."

Elizabeth is one of seven children in the Jackson household but her sense of humor stands alone.

DR. HOMER SUED FOR GEORGE

Bride He Elope With Last October Accuses Him
of Beating Her

The wrecked romance of Dr. Joseph H. Homer, Back Bay dentist, who eloped last October with a wealthy Brooklyn woman, went further on the rocks today when the dentist was served a summons in a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Corinne Homer.

The summons was served on Dr. Homer by Deputy Sheriff Harry Gallagher in Pemberton square, as the dentist kept on his way to the Domestic Relations Court, where a charge of beating his bride is pending against him.

Mrs. Homer charges the dentist with a cruel and abusive treatment. Dr. J. M. H. Homer, service of the summons without comment.

Last October the dentist, who languished in jail for more than two years, made a sensational railway charge brought against him by Mrs. Madge K. Wilbur of Los Angeles, which was fought in the courts, slipped away to Nahant, N. H., with Miss Corinne Simons, wealthy and talented musician of Brookline, the daughter of a retired Worcester merchant.

"They were married by a justice of the peace after they had been unable to persuade a rabbi to marry them."

The hall was booked for basketball games every night until April 15 and many schools will be disrupted by the fire.

W. R. Beebe, in charge of the hall, was awakened by shouts of firemen and found his way to the street from the third story through dense smoke. A. Joseph & Brothers, wholesale dry goods dealers, were heavy sufferers from water.

MARITAL KNOT CUT IN SECRET SESSION

MRS. ETHEL PRESTON McADOO
Divorce of her divorce proceedings in secret session aroused so much comment that Premier Poincaré is investigating. No mention was made that she was the daughter-in-law of the candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

PARIS DIVORCE OF McADOO, JR., IS PROBED

Poincaré Aroused by Speed
With Which Wife Was Granted Freedom

Paris, Feb. 12.—As a result of the comments on the brevity of the proceedings by which Mrs. Francis Hugue McAdoo was granted divorce from her husband, son of the former American secretary of the Treasury, in November last and the prominence given the whole question of American divorces in France, Premier Poincaré wrote a personal note to the public prosecutor stating it is regrettable that greater attention has not been paid his first note on this subject in October last.

The public prosecutor summoned Mrs. McAdoo's attorney, and asked him to explain the rapidity with which the divorce was obtained. He replied that as both parties to the case were agreed, he thought himself obliged in hastening the case.

Further investigation showed that the summary of the case was not seen by the clerk of the court as usually is required, but went directly to the president of the court, who with the assistant judges pronounced a divorce in four or five minutes. The decision was given in chamber and not in public audience as is customary.

The court is said to have been unaware of any connection between the McAdoo family and the late President Wilson, the fact not having been mentioned during the hearing.

Further investigation is being made into the case as a result of Poincaré's note, but it will not affect the judgment which stands.

TWO SISTERS LIVED
AS WIFE OF ONE MAN

Methuen, Feb. 12.—Domestic Drama. No. 33 Mainly accused was held in $2,000 for the Essex County Grand Jury for being "the master of a house with two wives."

It is a strange case of family misadventure, as revealed before Judge Albert Pierce in the local courts.

For fifteen years Dominic lived with his two "wives," who together were sisters, in perfect accord. Their jealousy kept in and spoiled the serenity of the domestic family.

Domestic had married in Sicily, and he immigrated to America, settling in Methuen. Household duties became too heavy for Mrs. Depina, and money was sent to bring over her younger sister, Yolanda, that winter year.

For fifteen years, the two sisters and Dominic lived together. Two sons were born to Yolanda and two daughters were born to Mrs. Depina. Yolanda is the alleged father of all five children. Yolanda is soon to become a mother again.

Police End Outbreak

The Chinese New Year's, which extends over a period of several days and is now in full blast, requires lots of celebrating.

Twenty-five celestials who are confined at the U. S. Immigration station on Marshall street, East Boston, couldn't get out to buy pork or throw confetti—but they staged their New Year's party just the same.

Fifteen Europeans, also confined at the Immigration Station, were the only means of excitement at hand.

The two lone guards in the big dining and recreation room at the station where the party was held and were suddenly plunged in the midst of a wild melee with sounds and fists filling the air.

The Chinese gave the war cry of "Gongxi." The Europeans yelled, "Down with the Yellow Peril!" And to a patrol of police from the East Boston station to quell the riot.

It was found that more than one round-shaped eye had stopped an accidental fist during the brief celebration, but there were no serious casualties.

As punishment, the Immigration authorities made all the Chinks go to bed.

Sweeter Than an Angel— Like a Prayer—Is Your Girl Like "Chickie"?

The Story of "Chickie" to Date

"Chickie" Bryce is the only child in the family. Her sister having died when she was quite young, the parents lavished all their affection on "Chickie." As the story opens, "Chickie" is attending business college and Arthur Sontag, one of her classmates, takes her to a dance. "Chickie's" father is afraid of the pitfalls ahead for his daughter, but his fears are soothed by the girl and her mother. "Chickie" is thrilled to the core by the dance, and when Arthur kisses her as he bids her goodnight she believes that she has met "her hero." Mary Blake and "Chickie" blandly discuss love and marriage; Mary says it's too sordid for her, but "Chickie" thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." However, "Chickie" is disillusioned about a year later, when Arthur passes her on the street and fails to notice her. At eighteen, "Chickie" secured a position in a broker's office. There she met Janina, a girl worldly wise and one who told the other girls how to "handle" the men. "Chickie" went out with several men, but was not impressed by them. Mary Blake's sister, Lucy, married, and with four children, is an object of her sympathy.

MARY's lips tightened in a laming smile. She said suddenly, with a rapid catch in her voice: "It's only because Lucy's nervous now. She's been terribly worried, and so many things come all at once."

Chickie nodded dubiously. "I'd just like to bet, Mar, that if Lucy could have known all this, she'd never—"

Mary interrupted with a quiet finality. "She'd do the very same thing again."

Chickie trembled. "Mary, you don't really believe that?"

"Yes! Yes! Oh, Lucy was terribly in love. I can remember. She used to go about almost in a trance. She was wild about George. She is yet. What was there for her if she didn't marry?"

Mary went on now in a feverish excitement, quickening her pace, digging her fingers hard against Chickie's arm. "Why, what else could she do? If you love you have to marry. For pity sakes, Chickie, do you think people can stop living just because life is hard?"

"It's not hard for everyone, and if Lucy didn't have so many

'THE BAT' HAS RETURNED TO BOSTON

Popular Mystery Show Still Packing Them in at Opera House

The last of the popular mystery plays, "The Bat," returned to Boston for a second week, last evening, at the Boston Opera House. From the time of its appearance and the enthusiasm displayed, "The Bat" appears to be going to be just as popular as it was when first shown in Boston several seasons ago. The play, a good one, Mrs. T. M. Smith, as "Lizzie," the head of the family, is a very clever actress and she won merited recognition.

SUES TO PROVE HIS RIGHT TO INCORPORATE

Twilight League Head Brings Novel Action Against City of Revere Officials

The Mayor and council of Revere won't tell the Massachusetts Secretary of State what kind of a man Robert A. Steele is. Steele is peeved at this. Today he started action before the Supreme Court to compel the Revere officials to act.

Last November Steele and others filed a petition in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth for the incorporation of the "Boston Twilight League League." Under the law, the State must know what kind of people are granted the right to form organizations.

A brief note was sent to the Mayor and City Council, asking for a report on Steele's reputation and character in his home town.

Up to date the officials have ignored the letter and Steele can't get the right to incorporate his baseball league until they do. Today Steele presented a petition to the court asking for a writ to compel the officials to answer the State's letter.

The case will be argued before Judge Bailey next Tuesday.

FORBES' Views on FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

In the South, Feb. 12—We who live in the rest of the country hear much about Florida's sun and sea.

We ought to hear more about Florida's soil. I have been attending a great agricultural fair at Tampa. In certain respects, it surpasses any fair I had ever before seen.

President Roosevelt of the fair told me that his country, Florida, had won first prize for three successive years. The man in charge of the exhibit said the number of different products had reached as high as a thousand.

From "white" soil in the north to black soil in the south—Florida runs that whole gamut. In the Northern parts you find very sandy soil, and also in sections of southern Florida, the soil consists very largely of whitish sand.

But at the fair I picked up a handful of what struck me as being the richest soil I had ever seen. I raved over it—having been brought up in a rural district of a country that had no such soil, the earth appeared to me to be quite the famous soil, as "A Little Bit of Heaven."

Then President Roosevelt told me what was what. This soil was from the Everglades section of Florida. You and I have heard a lot about the Everglades during these many years, none of the things being good, others not so good. Whatever funny business may have been resorted to by unscrupulous promoters in the past, this much can be said without shadow of qualification:

There could be no richer soil anywhere on the face of the whole earth than this soil of the Everglades of Florida. What a boon a few carloads of it would be for your lawn and garden if you live, as I do, where it isn't easy to keep them in the pink of condition.

Unfortunately, Florida's fruit growers are not receiving profitable prices for their principal products. For everything there's a reason, if only we can find it.

There is one reason—one reason that could be and should be remedied for the poor prices Florida has been getting for oranges and grapefruit. Florida growers have not yet learned thoroughly the value of the necessity for co-operation in marketing.

If I were asked to name the greatest need of Florida growers, I would reply in two words: Greater co-operation.

Florida, it may be said without offense, could well take a leaf out of California's book. The Imperial and Santa Ana valleys, and again, in that State, a several years behind California, the handling of its produce which are very similar in some States.

Without question Florida could be getting better prices today for its citrus fruit if the growers had sense enough, vision enough, to form a really comprehensive co-operative association for conducting or regulating marketing operations. Too much fruit was dumped on the market the moment it was ripe, regardless of the powers of the market to absorb the supply.

If the better season of the current season drives home effectively to growers the urgency of getting together before another season, then the experience will have been a blessing in disguise.

Co-operation is also directly needed in the matter of national advertising. Moreover there has been too much sensationalism. Instead of firing a lot of publicity papers, Florida should hire a publicity firm, and for a while, at least, round the world—or at least over all this continent. And arrangements should be made to handle the resulting inquiries to best advantage. Unhired goods should be put before the public.

Another thing Florida badly needs is a law governing live stock and live stock breeding.

On all sides one sees tracts of forest land which have been burned over, thus destroying the new growth of trees. I'm told that cattle owners deliberately set fire to forest lands in order to have better new grass and shrubs for their animals. Cattle roam everywhere, apparently without the slightest restrictions. They stray on the borders of highways. Instead of cattle owners taking precautions lest their animals do damage, everybody else has to take safeguards against the cattle. If the future of Florida is to be protected and preserved, cattle and forest fires will have to be taken in hand.

MEDBURY SAYS

By John P. Medbury

THIS is the time of the year when thousands of human beings are getting ready to buy automobiles. An automobile puts you on your feet, and that's a good thing.

PEOPLE who put the car on the back of their heads, and read, "This machine is just for you."

If you buy it on time you should have paid for it the day you bought it.

THIS is rather to be said to the neighbors who don't save.

HOWEVER, you can't make a person with a car save. They always like to buy.

THEY generally get very impatient when they don't get two or three more payments to make.

SOME people save all winter in order to buy a second hand car for the summer. Then they have all summer in order to get the car out of the repair shop by winter.

ONE guy has done this for seven years and he's never been over three miles in an automobile yet.

A MOTOR car is the greatest pleasure in the world to any boy except the man who has to make the payments.

EVERY time he goes for a trip his whole day is spent worrying about the next installment he's coming due.

PEOPLE should stop worrying about the payments on their automobiles and enjoy them as long as possible. Remember, receipts don't make your car any faster.

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeritza

Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company

THE vogue for short skirts reveals the fact that the average woman of today has well-shaped ankles and lower limbs. The reason for this may be that the normal woman walks even though she may neglect nearly every form of exercise, and there is no better means of attaining shapely legs.

There are also any number of indoor exercises that help to bring about symmetry of the lower limbs. A comforting fact about these exercises is that they tend to reduce limbs that are too large and to develop those that are underdeveloped. However, in order to reduce it is necessary to take exercises very vigorously and long enough each time to stir up circulation and induce restriction. The woman who exercises to build up her body should rest easier and practice less strenuously than her heavier sister.

Massage with olive oil pure coconut oil or cod cream will help to fill out no-thin legs. Rub the oil in with an outward, circular movement. Then sit off your rest and rest your limbs with a delicate touch in powder to bring all trace and odor of the oil.

The best plan is to apply the oil just before a rest, as the rest in bed after a long day helps in the stretching building that is necessary in order to gain weight.

You will find that indoor exercises taken before your going to bed just before your morning up are delightfully refreshing and will send you to your bath in a glow of renewed energy.

Here is an exercise that calls nearly all the muscles of your legs into play. To say that it is difficult at first but it will soon become easy provided you work at it a few moments each morning.

Stand straight with your arms at your sides, your weight on your left leg. Bend your right knee, at the same time sliding your right leg sideways along the floor as far as you can. Do not rest your right knee.

Now quickly shift your weight to your right foot, bend your right knee and slide your left leg along the floor with your left knee bent.

Repeat this exercise ten times, shifting your weight from your right to your left leg and back again. You will enjoy working at it and after several weeks of daily practice you will find not only that your legs are more symmetrical than they were, but that you are growing lighter on your feet and more graceful.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

For the Man to Say

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in the thirteenth but look younger. Am going about with a man who lives with a widowed sister who goes to business and has a big salary. When the boy is of age he will inherit a little money. Now my friend is not earning much but always gives his sister more than half his salary. I have repeatedly told him that if he cared for me so much I would not stand in her way, and that it would be better if we parted, but he insists that he loves me too much to part. If he cared for me so much would he not give her love and attention for my future home? He told me once that I should jolly him along as she does and I would get all I want out of him but I told her I wouldn't do that. Am beginning to feel that my time is being wasted while he talks to her.

MARIE.

TALK to the man with the same name FRANKIE. YOU HAVE AIN' NO MR. HIS LOYALTY AND ANGER TO HIS SISTER ARE WELL FOR THE ATTITUDE HE IS IN TO HIS TOWARD HIS WIFE. BUT ON THE OTHER HAND, HE MUST PUT UP WITH HER AND DO THE EASIEST THING IN RESPONSE TO A LITTLE 'JOLLY' FROM A MANAGING WOMAN. HE MUST HAVE ENOUGH STRENGTH AND VISION TO DO THE RIGHT THING BY EVERYONE CONCERNED—NOT MERELY TO THE MOST OBVIOUS PERSON AND THE ONE NEAREST AT HAND.

Young Enough to Wait

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm eighteen and have been going with a boy of twenty for about six months. I was with him only three times before we were engaged. I found out later that he was in bad health and that I was in doubt whether his health would ever be any better. I love him dearly and would wait for him for both of us. Can you give me some advice as to what to do?

UNDECIDED.

YOU are both young enough to wait for each other. Hope and happiness may do much to cure your sweetheart. Don't doubt that the health is going to improve. Have his mother make him wait for a year or two things may have changed much for the better that your loyalty will have its full reward.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

When presenting your cousin Julia to a gentleman friend of yours, would you say—"Julia, may I present Mr. Jones?" or "Julia, may I present Mrs. Jones?"

(2) How would you introduce your brother to a gentleman friend of yours? (3) How would you introduce your sister to a gentleman friend of yours?

When presenting your cousin Julia to a gentleman friend of yours, would you say—"Julia, may I present Mr. Jones?" or "Julia, may I present Mrs. Jones?"

The two most important things to remember when making an introduction are: (1) Mention the name of the lady first; and (2) introduce the gentleman to the lady.

When presenting your cousin Julia to a gentleman friend of yours, would you say—"Julia, may I present Mr. Jones?" or "Julia, may I present Mrs. Jones?"

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

It is correct to order a club sandwich in the afternoon.

(2) How should it be eaten?

GRACE H.

Yes. (2) The best way to manage a club sandwich is to use both a knife and a fork, cutting the sandwich in small mouthfuls (one and a half inch square) and then mouthful to the mouth by the fork. If the sandwich seems unusually tall and some of them seem to have designs on being akimboed, separate it in layers or half it at least, and cut it then as I have indicated above.

L.O.O.F. INSTALLATION TO BE ON AIR TONIGHT

For the first time in the history of the order, an installation of the L.O.O.F. will be broadcast from WPAI, Cincinnati, at 11 o'clock tonight. The program will feature the installation of a new member, and the L.O.O.F. will be heard from various stations across the country.

Many lodges in the vicinity of Cincinnati have installed radio sets for the purpose of picking up the installation ceremonies, while other members of the order scattered throughout the country, including those in this city, will undoubtedly listen in for the event.

Band music, guitar selection and the playing of "He's an Old Fellow" by George Hunt, the composer, will feature the entertainment portion of the program.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Broadcasting stations in New England and the East generally, extending into the interior as far west as Ohio, and south of Georgia, will come in "strong" in Boston and vicinity tonight.

The difference of barometric pressure which will be in excess of ten inches to the east and west will cause difficulty to local receivers in bringing in stations in these sections.

BROADCASTING EXHIBITS OF THE WPAI SHOW

Visitors at Shepard Stores See Studio in Actual Operation

The public demonstration of radio broadcasting, featured as part of the radio show this week at The Shepard Stores, has made a hit with the fans.

Twice each afternoon, visitors to the show are permitted to see the studio of a broadcasting station in actual operation. On the first day of the show, several hundred watched the announcer and artists perform before the microphone.

Visitors to the show today were given a similar insight into the method of broadcast, with popular songs being broadcast at 1 o'clock by the announcer and Howard Egan in view of the audience.

The show is staged by the Radio Corporation of America, which has gathered a collection of radio apparatus, dating from the very earliest transmitter and receiver, up to the most modern.

The handling of the radio-phonograph traffic by means of machine sending and receiving is demonstrated by the actual apparatus. Messages are first "typed" by a typewriter which perforates a narrow ribbon.

The ribbon is fed into a relay mechanism which actuates the radio transmitter at a speed much greater than any operator could work.

At the receiving end, the signals are picked up through a receiver and relay which traces a wavy line on a ribbon. This is "translated" and copied into the original message.

Some of the important steps in the making of radio vacuum tubes are shown by the actual operation. This includes the very delicate process of drawing the filament to the lead.

A complete ship's radio "back" has been set up, showing the standard transmitter, the receiver, the control panel for the generating equipment, and even a ship's clock which chimes six bells if you happen to be around at three o'clock.

When the Radio Corporation, in telling the public some of the interesting history of old and new time apparatus.

The show is free, and is open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The Listener

In listening to that transcendent tone Friday night, the audience must have sensed the dawn of a new era of communication.

When General Clark and that communication was the medium through which millions of people and nations would be eliminated, he certainly said a mouthful.

An inkling of its possibilities could be felt by the audience, for the voice of the reporter, the voice of the man who had the regular Southern twang, the voice from Atlanta was also recognized.

St. Louis and Kansas City were heard there, too, and even the voice of the Western Union, while San Francisco was also typical.

Just imagine how familiar we will be some day, when we hear equally as well voices from Europe, Africa, Asia, and even South America.

A difficult thing for one to conceive, but the same avenue of communication. Misunderstanding to be bound to be eliminated between the people of the earth by means of radio broadcasting.

Another truth which was subtly demonstrated by General Clark in rearranging the demonstration was the feasibility of linking together the long-distance telephone lines of the country. This should prove to us that broadcasting is going to be quite dependent upon the wire lines in the not far future, especially if the scope is to be fully utilized.

It was not until the day of the radio that we were to depend upon radio alone for our recreation, for the radio and San Francisco that night, it is very doubtful if we would have been there at all.

Radio Queries

I have built the four-tube Super as described in the American, and am now listening to the radio. I have found it very satisfactory, but I am having trouble with the KDKA, WJZ and WPAI, but not J. P. I am using Federal, and the former and Simmons coils. It is not the grid leak depends more on the tube used than on the circuit, and occasionally an old circuit will be better than a new one, but this is not the case in this instance.

Campaign Managers Watch
for N. Y. Speech to Analyze Reception by Country

Washington, Feb. 12.—The trip of President and Mrs. Coolidge today to New York, where Mr. Coolidge will address the National Republican Club tonight, is their first departure since they entered the White House. Not since August 11, when the President and his wife returned from the funeral of President Harding at Marion, Ohio, have they been more than a few miles outside of Washington.

The New York address has been carefully prepared by Mr. Coolidge. It is the first important address as President outside of his message to Congress, and while he does not expect to make a political speech, the reception by the country will be keenly awaited by managers of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The President will speak about a half hour and will be heard by several million people outside the banquet hall and in the radio. His speech will be broadcasted by Station WJLB in New York and WCAP in Washington.

One cabinet member, Postmaster General E. A. Tamm, will accompany the President. Other members of the cabinet are expected to be present, including Secretary of the Navy and Mr. Clegg, secretary to the President.

The President is on his way from the Pennsylvania station in New York to the Waldorf to be with the members of the Women's Republic Club.
